HERE & THERE with the Mr. Men

Directions can be confusing! Learning the difference between Right and Left can be a hard task. Some adults never really grasp the idea and begin to panic when asked for directions!

Featuring the ever popular Mr. Men, this set of four games has been specially written for children of four years and upwards.

The games are not only fun to play, they are also designed to teach children about giving directions and how to plan simple routes.

Designed by two primary school teachers, these programs draw on their experience of teaching the early years and using computers in the classroom.

Included with the programs is a specially written instruction book featuring the Mr. Men. Intended to be read with your children, it introduces the games and the simple operations required to play them.
